BOSS Announces Premium Instrument Cables

BIC-P Cable Series Delivers the Ultimate Sonic Performance for Guitar and Bass

Los Angeles, California, January 18, 2021 — BOSS announces the BIC-P premium instrument cable series, the latest addition to the company's ever-expanding lineup of high-quality accessories for musicians. Crafted with the finest materials and carefully engineered for superior tone, BIC-P premium instrument cables offer the ultimate in sound reproduction for guitar and bass.

As the first point of transmission between a guitar or bass and the next device in the signal chain, the instrument cable has a significant impact on the overall sound and response. In developing the BIC-P line, BOSS evaluated the many elements that go into a cable—wire gauge and type, shielding, connectors, and more—and how they all work together to affect the sound. Through deep experimentation, a proprietary combination of materials was created that accurately translates the richness and character of an instrument's pickups and natural resonances, providing players the most musical and sonically pure cable available.

Each BIC-P cable features an 18 AWG multi-strand center conductor made with 99.99% pure oxygen-free mono-crystal copper, delivering full, balanced tone with warmth, punch, and clarity. Braided mono-crystal copper shielding and 24K gold-plated connectors further enhance performance, while a stylish woven outer jacket coils smoothly and provides lasting durability.

BIC-P premium instrument cables are available in 10 ft./3 m and 18 ft./5.5 m lengths with straight-to-straight 1/4-inch connectors (BIC-P10, BIC-P18) and straight-to-right angle 1/4-inch connectors (BIC-P10A, BIC-P18A).
